CONFIDENCE AGAINST THE UNKNOWN

You work all day saving lives and your protection is essential. The current armor you wear may not protect against all the threats you face and other solutions may interfere with the job at hand. First Responder armor from Line Of Fire Inc. will integrate seamlessly with your current soft armor to greatly enhance your level of protection and survivability.

Never before has there been a thin, light armor solution with standalone ballistic capability that also protects you against blunt and sharp trauma. Our First Responder armor is a standalone hard armor plate that is considerably larger than trauma plates and considerably stronger – offering a new standard in protection to those individuals who get there first. The First Responder hard armor comes in two sizes (up to 10" by 12") to provide maximum protection to the vital organs. In addition to its ballistic capabilities, this armor cannot be defeated by sharp or other blunt trauma that may dominate your day.

Having been rated by the National Institute of Justice (NIJ) as Level IIIA (0101.06) standalone armor, our First Responder hard armor also offers superior ballistic protection against handgun rounds. First Responder packs all of this performance in a thin, lightweight plate that is exceptionally comfortable to wear all day – everyday.

When operator comfort and protection cannot be separated, First Responder hard armor should be your first choice. We are proud to introduce our latest innovative solution to help save lives. Our First Responder series hard armor is a very thin, light and comfortable solution that sets the new standard in performance to weight ratio with unsurpassed durability.
